

Peel Waterways Centre

Free community lecture/workshop series Expression of Interest

Since 2005, the Peel Waterways Centre (part of the Department of Water's Mandurah branch) has been available to State and Local government agencies, environmental, catchment groups etc. to provide community lectures/workshops to encourage and promote awareness and involvement in issues affecting the Peel Waterways.

Key functions of the centre include:

1. Fostering the communication and understanding of waterways issues to the community
2. Co-ordinating and facilitating Natural Resource Management projects throughout the region.
3. Identifying and assisting in scientific research of the Region's waterways
4. Providing meeting facilities for community based groups

We are seeking expressions of interest for the free community lecture/workshop series held at the Peel Waterways Centre.

If you are interested, or know of an interested group wanting to provide a community presentation, please complete the form or circulate as required.

Alternatively, if there are there any topics you would like to see included in the series that you are not able to promote, please forward these topics onto the Centre.

Please indicate your proposed presentation and anticipated date or issue or topic that you would like to hear about at the Centre.
